GOLF CLUB BADEN-BADEN E.V.

The somewhat different golf course yet one that can rightfully claim to be one of Germany's finest natural golf courses. Even if its length (4260m, par 64) lies short of other championship courses, its exquisite subtleties require golfers with low handicaps to use all their skill and tactical nous to ensure a satisfactory score. The club, which boasts a 120-year-old tradition, can be proud of its mature course on the lower slopes of the Fremersberg, where the Black Forest with its mixture of larches, birches, beeches, oaks and majestic chestnut trees begins. The wonderfully situated course and the cozy clubhouse with its delightful terrace offers an ambience that makes Baden-Baden Golf Club the envy of many others.

BADEN HILLS GOLF UND CURLING CLUB E.V.

Founded by golfers of the Royal Canadian Air Force in the 1950s and considerably developed in the 1990s, the course offers a strong blend of unspoilt nature and accomplished design. Thanks to the special composition of the soil (sandy and free draining) it is perfectly suited to being played all-year round.

Located between the Rhine and Baden-Airpark, the passing boats and the panorama of the Black Forest offer the perfect backdrop. The constant change between open fairways and challenging doglegs are particularly appealing to golfers of all levels. The clubhouse restaurant, with its large terrace, invites members and visitors alike to enjoy the relaxed atmosphere and quality cuisine.

GOLFCLUB BAD HERRENALB-BERNBACH E.V.

A jewel among the golf courses in the region is the 9-hole course in Bad Herrenalb. For more than half a century, the well-maintained course with its fairways and challenging greens has been a special gem. Active sportsmen and nature lovers alike appreciate the natural landscape with its streams and springs spread over 100 hectares.

In keeping with the demanding game, which resembles a mixture of whole-body workout and deep relaxation in „nature’s fitness studio“, attractive taster rounds and individual coaching sessions are among the offer which makes it easy for beginners to acquire their DGV golf licence at Robert Fischer’s Herrenalb Golf School. The cuisine of the club restaurant is also guaranteed to be multi-faceted and offers attractive culinary delights after a successful day of golf.

GOLFCLUB JOHANNESTHAL E.V.

For more than 25 years, our guests have appreciated the challenging and top-maintained golf course. 18 holes are picturesquely embedded in the lower slopes of the Kraichgau hills and give the golf course a very special character. The course corresponds to the claim of being a sporty club, with relatively wide holes and flat, easily manageable bunkering that meanders over the chains of hills, but can bite back when the game becomes too imprecise. Because the strategically cleverly interspersed rough zones are nice for the eye, but bad for the score. The same applies to the water hazards that have to be overcome either on the tee or on the approach to the green.

With this feel-good package, a visit to the excellent restaurant in the listed clubhouse is a must.

GOLF DE LA WANTZENAU

Ten kilometres from Strasbourg lies the Golf de La Wantzenau. The course was designed by the well-known English architect Jeremy Pern, and assisted by one of the best professionals in French golf, Jean Garaïalde. Water is an integral part of the versatile course, but long fairways and wooded holes also characterise the course. It's a course designed for all levels of ability: A training area open to the public includes a 12-hole compact course, a covered driving range, a grass range and a putting green. In this 72-hectare countryside setting, the clubhouse's architecture is reminiscent of the great Alsatian heritage. After the round, people meet to relax on the terrace, enjoy the delicious cuisine of the restaurant or refreshments at the bar.
